PAINT AS AN ASSET.

Bankers Say They Lend More Money on Property When Buildings Are Well Painted.

AN INDICATION OF THRIFT.

One Square Advance 25 Per Cent. More in Repainting is Done Every Five Years.

Does it pay to paint carefully farm buildings? Does it add to the selling value of a farm when buildings are properly kept up and regularly painted? A careful inquiry of a number of leading bankers in the Minneapolis valley, including such states as Iowa, Ill., Minn., Michigan, Ohio, Indiana and Missouri, reveals the fact that in nearly every case the bankers did not hesitate to say that they would lend all the money from 5 to 25 per cent. more on such farm buildings were well painted and kept in good condition. They maintain that well kept-up and well painted buildings and fences are an indication of thrift and that the thrifty farmer is a good client, and to this money can be safely loaned. An analysis of the returns from these bankers shows that the increased loan upon houses of painted buildings is around 25 per cent.

Some of these bankers make interesting comment. A Michigan banker says that, while not especially prepared to advise definitely in response to this inquiry, the officers would loan more money on farms where buildings were painted than where they were not. The banker also adds that where houses, barns and fences were well taken care of the farm is a profitable proposition, and bankers in general consider the farmer a good client. Another Michigan banker says that painted buildings are a good investment and that the owner should be careful to keep them in good condition. The banker also adds that the value of the farm buildings is one of the most important factors in the valuation of a farm, and that the owner should be careful to keep them in good condition.

A Minnesota banker says that he is much more willing to loan money where the buildings are well painted than where they are not. He believes that he would loan 25 per cent. more on the buildings were not properly painted. A farmer who will keep his buildings painted takes a much deeper interest in his work than one who does not. Another Minnesota banker says that well painted buildings have resulted in securing from him some money as high as 25 per cent. more money than where the buildings are not painted. An Ohio banker says that it will loan 25 per cent. more money on a well kept farm where buildings are painted at least once every five years. A southern Illinois banker says that it has no fixed rule about this, but it does make a difference.

difference when owners of farm lands apply for loans. If the buildings are well painted and thus well preserved the loan rate would not only be cheaper, but the amount of money borrowed would be larger. A northern Illinois bank does not hesitate to say that it would loan fully 50 per cent. more on a farm where buildings were well painted and in good order than where they were not. The vice president, who answers the inquiry, goes on to say: "There probably are many farmers good financially and morally who permit their buildings to remain unpainted but as a rule the most substantial people who live in the country keep their buildings well painted."

An Iowa bank, through its vice president, states that it would make a difference of at least 25 per cent. in favor of the farm with painted buildings. Another Iowa concern says that it would make a difference of at least 20 per cent. All this being true, it is perfectly evident that it is a good business proposition to keep the farm buildings well painted. They not only look better and are more pleasing to the owner, but the farm would sell to better advantage, the loan value of the property would be greatly increased and the buildings themselves would last much longer and need less repair.—The American Agriculturist

PAINT AND ILLITERACY.

Curious Fact Comes to Light That Localities Least Using Books Avoid Paint Also.

Washington, D. C.—A curious fact has been brought to light by the Educational Bureau and the Bureau of Industrial Research here. It is that in the states where illiteracy is most prevalent paint is least used. The paint referred to is the common or burn variety, of course, for the backward countries have no need for the finer pigments or facial adornments. It is a fact, though, that in the sections of all states where white illiteracy is highest painted houses are rare and painted outbuildings and barns are practically unknown. Probably the illiterates do not use paint on their buildings because they do not understand its value as a preservative.

BLACKSMITHING AND HORSE SHOEING.

We do not have five men in the shop but we have enough to attend to the wants of our customers. We have with us now a first class wood worker. We have also a good horse shoer. In addition to that we work ourselves. Thankful for your patronage in the past, we respectfully ask for a continuance of the same.

Yours respectfully,

COMEDIAN BOB OTT, "HERO EXTRAORDINARY," IN LINE FOR CARNEGIE MEDAL, ALTHOUGH UNSUCCESSFUL AS "LEG PULLER"

A Carnegie medal may be the portion of the versatile comedian Bob Ott, appearing at the head of his own company at the Driggs theatre this week. In addition to being a very clever actor Mr. Ott is also a great lover of nature and daily hikes about over the countryside in the vicinity of where he is showing, thinking nothing whatever of a ten or twelve mile jaunt. Not everybody can keep pace with the sturdy actor man on one of these tramps and as a result he generally is forced to "hit the dirt" alone.

Hearing about the beautiful reservoir of the Clearfield Water Company located among the lofty hills on Montgomery creek, some five miles from town, Mr. Ott started yesterday to hike out there and worship the soon to be generally prevailing beverage in its real purity. He made the trip out and spent an hour or two looking the huge dam and its surroundings over. In going out the nature lover traveled up over Coal Hill and decided to return via Hyde City.

The actor-an hitting an easy four-mile gait, had progressed a short way below Jim McPherson's farm when hearing a noise and clatter behind him he turned and beheld a runaway team approaching and running as though the devil himself was after them. A tow-headed farmer boy of about fourteen years was hanging to the lines and vainly endeavoring to stop the frightened animals. Sensing the situation the athletic Mr. Ott swung off to the side of the road and as the muzzle of the lead horse reached him his strong right arm shot out and seizing the rein near the bit he hung on and steering the team off the road against a convenient bank succeeded in stopping them, although he was dragged more than two hundred feet and was all the time in imminent danger of being crushed under the plunging feet of the maddened horses.

After helping the scared driver to get his team turned around Mr. Ott continued his journey toward town. Thursday morning was destined to be "our hero's" busy day. When about opposite the home of Mike Kowalski, a few hundred yards above Hyde, he heard the cry of "fire" and at once located the disturbance on the second floor of the Kowalski home.

Mr. Ott rushed to the scene and seizing a bucket of water ran up the stairs to a smoke filled room where a blaze was located in a clothes press. A second bucket of water subdued the flames, when the aid of the brave fireman was requested by the woman of the house who was lying on the floor writhing in agony. He attempted to lift her to her feet but only served to bring a cry of pain from her lips. "Our hero" then discovered that he had some proposition on his hands.

It appeared that at one time there had been a stove in the room on the first floor and the stove pipe from same had been carried through the floor and when the stove was taken out a piece of pasteboard box was nailed over the hole in the floor. Mrs. Kowalski in her excitement due to the fire had stepped squarely on this pasteboard and her foot slipped into the stove pipe hole. The lady is not built along tall and willowly lines, with the result that further descent stopped and the leg held fast at a point above the knee, which the butcher would describe as being about the end of the shank of the ham.

When the leg went through and stuck tight the bruised flesh quickly formed a ridge below the line of contact with the floor and the least movement or attempt to pull same out brought excruciating pain to the fair prisoner. Mr. Ott, before he became an actor, dabbled some in civil engineering, but found no law of hydraulics in his mind which would relieve the situation. A couple of neighbor women arrived on the scene and they counseled with the perplexed actor man and the sufferer and essayed to save the injured member sufficiently to allow Mr. Ott to lift the woman out of her predicament. The salve was applied by the women and Mr. Ott essayed the lift but was forced to desist on account of the intense pain to the victim.

The actor refused to be baffled, however, and going across to a neighbor he requisitioned a saw and hatchet and putting his stage-carpentering ingenuity to work soon had a hole in the floor large enough to release the fainting woman, and this done "our hero" wiping the beads of perspiration from his brow modestly took retreat.

Mr. Ott recounted his dual experiences to the local press and was careful to mention that he had been so successful in his rescue that he had won the Carnegie medal for heroic action.

MY! BUT IT'S GREAT, HOUSEWIFE STATES

Mrs. Elizabeth Truitt, 300 E. 1st St., Philadelphia, who has a home "comfortable" for husband and child, says: "My! but it's great! I'm restored to health when one of my conditions I was in. All my life I seemed to lie on my stomach. After a while it would develop into pain and headaches. Frequently before night would have a raging headache and sometimes be faint with vertigo. I read about Tangle and I bought some. I've never had a single return of those spells of vertigo and have noticed even the faintness and I am in a number of ways better and stronger. Headaches have gotten less frequent, until they're almost a forgotten annoyance."

The genuine J. I. Gore Co. Tangle is now sold here by Stewart Drug Co. and Woodward & McPherson.

PANTHERS SURPRISE KITTENS BY WINNING GAME

The Panthers pulled the wool over the Kittens' eyes last night in a hot battle. Wallace stirred the pins to such an extent that he made more 200 scores and averaged 205 per game, making a total of 614 pins. Wallace and H. Roseberry had a battle in the last game. Wallace started the trouble by making two strikes before Roseberry got any. Wallace made five without stopping and then Roseberry made five. When the game ended Wallace had 227 and Roseberry had 224.

Next week is the last one of the season and the following week the bowlers will be tendered a banquet. The Wild Cats have clinched the pennant. An elimination tournament will be started next week.

LAGRIFFE

EMPRESS EUGENIE OF FRANCE IS NEARING END. HER LIFE A BOOK

London, March 19.—Private advices from Farnborough have given rise to some alarm regarding the health of the Empress Eugenie, who a few weeks hence will enter upon her ninety-fourth year. The former Empress of the French, who seemed made of iron, is said to be rapidly failing. It is believed to be a question of only a short time until there comes an end to her marvellous career, so full of romance and pathos, resplendent with the glories of a dazzling and unexpected rise to supreme power, dimmed as suddenly and unexpectedly by the tragedy of an irretrievable fall.

Eugenia has lived to see the fall of the hated Germans, who brought the tragedy into her life. To a recent visitor to Farnborough, the old country estate in Hants where she has resided since 1880, she expressed herself as contented to die.

"I have lived," he said. "I have been. I do not want to be anything more, not even a memory. I am the past—one of those distant horizons, confused and lost, which the traveler, looking back, gazes at from the summit of a mountain, and which he forgets in the expectation of viewing the new scenes already outlined before him. I live, but I am no more; a shadow, a phantom, a grief which walks."

"Between my past and my present not only 50 years intervene, but 10 centuries! I had a dream—a dream which was great for the country which received me as sovereign, which clasped me in its arms. The dream is dead, killed by destiny."

afternoon meeting. Sec'y. Graffius will talk on "That Boy and Girl" of yours. All children are invited and their parents are welcome, at 4 o'clock. Special music.

SUNDAY TRAIN ON B. R. & P. BRANCHES MAY BE REPLACED

It is quite possible that Sunday train service between Clearfield and DuBois and Indiana and Punxsutawney will be resumed when the spring schedule goes into effect on the B. R. & P. railroad about the first of May. A tentative schedule was issued the other day and it contained the information that the trains on this branch would be operated daily. This meant that they would run on Sundays. It is considered highly probable that the Sunday service will be resumed when the new schedule is issued.

Sunday service on these branches was discontinued over a year ago when the roads were overcrowded with traffic and Sunday with the big day for movement of freights.

KEEP LOOKING YOUNG

It's Easy—If You Know Dr.
Edwards' Olive Tablets

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, are gentle in their action yet always effective. They bring about that exuberance of spirit, that natural buoyancy which should be enjoyed by everyone, by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

You will know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets by their olive color. 10c and 25c per box. All druggists.

"Let's Try Purity Margarine"

That's a good resolution. Here we are advertising "Purity" Margarine and urging you to try it.

And here you are reading our advertisement, and wondering if the saving is really worth while—if it is really true that "Purity" Margarine is so much like butter that you cannot tell the difference.

There is only one sure way to decide the question. Buy a pound of "Purity" Margarine and put it to the most satisfying test of all—the test of taste.

Purity—fine flavor—superior quality—and economy—these are four reasons why you should buy "Purity." It sells for one-third less than butter. Your dealer has it.

Replete With Greater Values OUR ANNUAL SALE OF WHITE Opens On Saturday

Beautiful in their billowy whiteness, these under-muslins and the other white things in our annual SALE OF WHITE make the store look like a clear landscape after a quiet snowstorm.

The touch of color added by the fanciful trimming of some of the lingerie enhances the beauty of the merchandise and the fluffiness of the laces complete the picture of the interior of our white goods section.

You women with an eye to the practical will find much here to enthuse about. If you're one of those women with a passion for the daintiest of undermuslins you'll take delight in seeing these counters and tables filled with such morsels of loveliness.

First comers naturally get the better selections and while we have made unusual preparations for the event, we suggest earlier shopping for the choicer articles.

WILDFIRE

By ZANE GREY

Author of

"The Rainbow Trail," "Riders of the Purple Sage," "The Border Legion," Etc.

Lin Sloane had tracked the untamed red stallion Wildfire from Utah up into Colorado, and had captured him, but he was only the nominal owner, for Lucy Smith had won the love of this beautiful animal and had captured the heart of the "wild-horse rider" as well. Lucy was the pride of her father's heart, having inherited his love of horses and his perfect fearlessness. One day she raced Wildfire against her father's "favorite," and won. On a later day, in another race, Wildfire saved Lucy's life against forest fire.

Like all of Zane Grey's heroes, this one is straight, clean and exciting—perhaps, if possible, it is a little more thrilling than any of the others.

COULD BE SPIRITUALLY IMPROVED MATERIALLY

(United Press)

SAN FRANCISCO, March 20.—George Joseph Taylor, who knows where heaven is, and who is about to tell the world the exact location in a book, is looking for a divorce from Marie Margaret Taylor, his million dollar New York bride.

After less than a year of married life Mrs. Taylor has returned to her Riverside home in New York, where she will continue studying spiritual subjects and preparing lectures. So long as the two lived in the spiritual world, in which they were engaged, they were happy together, Taylor said. But when they came down to material things they learned they were not suited.

NEWS

CURWENSVILLE

A. G. Ammerman, who was engaged in the ice business for several years, and who sold his interest to Harvey Cook last fall, has moved his family to Philadelphia, where he will engage in his old line of trade.

Wm. Baer and family, who resided on the corner of Walnut and North streets, have moved into the A. G. Ammerman house over on Irvin Hill, he vacating for the reason that the property was purchased from Miss Ella Laing by E. K. Way last fall and who will occupy the same with his family.

Many Curwensville people are "taking time by the forelock" and are utilizing this fine March weather for moving, instead of waiting until the first of April, the usual time for "fitting." Happy is the man who owns his own home and is not compelled to sit from pillar to post every spring time.

Some time ago it was noted in the local paper and also the Progress that the local order of Odd Fellows of Curwensville was contemplating the erection of a new home. As yet no positive decision has been arrived at by that august body. A short synopsis of the order generally will not come amiss here, and perhaps will shed a small ray of light in the pathway of the uninitiated.

Although representation in Biblical times is claimed by this order, the earliest direct knowledge we have of the society is its existence in London in latter part of the 18th century, under the name of Ancient and Honorable Loyal Odd Fellows, finally called the Union Order of Odd Fellows. These original societies were of a convivial character and attempted to change the nature of the order, resulting in a secession of the several lodges which formed the Manchester Unity which is now the main part of the British society. In America, lodge No. 1, was organized in Baltimore on April 26th, 1819, by Thomas Wilkey and four other persons, according to the union and on usages. A lodge was organized in Boston, March 26th 1820, also one in Philadelphia, December 26th, 1821, both of which were chartered by the original American organization. Since 1843 the order in America has had no connection with that in Great Britain. There are organizations of Odd Fellows in Germany, Switzerland, Australia, South America and the Hawaiian Islands, working under charters received from the American order. Bethesda lodge was organized and instituted on January 16, 1872, by D. D. G. M. Thomas Robbins; S. J. Row, grand warden; C. J. Keaggy, grand secretary and A. M. Hills, grand treasurer. (These men are all deceased.) The charter members were as follows: Henry Kerns, P. G.; J. M. Stewart, N. G.; Ed. Goodwin, V. G.; J. R. Irwin, secretary; T. J. Robinson Asst. Sec.; J. E. Kratzer, Treas.; B. S. Broome, R. S. to N. G.; J. R. Caldwell, L. S. to N. G.; L. V. B. Soper, Warden; J. A. Maxwell, conductor M. F. Owens, R. S.; W. W. Broome, L. S. S.; A. B. Whittaker, O. G.; J. G. Hills, I. G.; S. F. McCloskey, chaplain; L. T. Ross, R. S. to V. G.; Charles Grist, L. S. to V. G. (All these charter members are deceased except three, J. E. Kratzer, J. R. Caldwell, and Wm. Broome.) Bethesda lodge was so unfortunate as to lose its charter, furniture and general effects with the burning of the Patton block on October 2d, 1880. The loss was nearly two thousand dollars; no insurance. Meetings were then held in the Bilger block until the completion of the present Patton block, when the rooms now occupied were taken. Today Bethesda lodge ranks as one of the regulated and conducted lodges in the county. Financially it is near the top, and its membership roll is close to the three hundred mark.

John Middleton, Curwensville's liverrman, is ill at his home, suffering from some sort of stomach trouble. His friends hope to see him about again shortly.

Mrs. Harry Bilger was taken suddenly ill on Thursday morning and for several hours her condition was very serious. Dr. Jenkins was hurriedly summoned and relieved her of intense pain in a few hours.

The Ladies Aid Society of the M. E. church, at a meeting Wednesday evening, decided to give an entertainment, the event to take place within the next two weeks. New Treatment That Knocks Rheumatism

THE BOX FREE TO ANY SUFFERER

Up in Syracuse, N. Y., a treatment for rheumatism has been found that hundreds of users say is a wonder, relieving cases that seem little short of miraculous. Just a few treatments even in the very worst cases seem to accomplish wonders even after other remedies have failed entirely. It seems to neutralize the uric acid and line salt deposits in the blood, driving all the poisonous clothing waste from the system. Swelling, pain, stiffness, swelling just seem to melt away and vanish.

The treatment first introduced by Mr. Delano is so good that its owner wants everybody that suffers from rheumatism or who has a friend so afflicted, to get a free trial package from him to prove just what it will do in every case before a penny is spent. Mr. Delano says: "To prove the Delano treatment will positively overcome rheumatism, no matter how severe, stubborn or long standing the case, and even after all other treatments have failed, I will, if you have never previously used the treatment, send you a full size 75c package free if you will just cut out this notice and send it with your name and address with life to help pay postage and distribution expense to me personally."

SPECULATE ON POSSIBILITY OF GERMANS REFUSING PEACE TERMS

By L. C. MARTIN

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

PARIS, March 21.—British officials are considering the possibility of the Germans refusing to accept the terms of the preliminary treaty, it was learned from authoritative sources today. They believe that the enemy will throw up their hands and say "We want you like." What the peace delegates are planning to do in such a contingency could not be ascertained. It was understood, however, that safeguards will be taken.

The American delegates have received the first report from Wm. E. Bullitt who left for Russia several weeks ago to investigate conditions under the Bolshevik regime. He is now en route to Paris and is expected to be able to throw considerable light on the situation which will be considered as soon as preliminary peace with Germany is disposed of.

PADAROWSKI FEARS GERMAN POWER TO DOMINATE RUSSIA AND POLAND

(By United Press)

WARSAW, March 21.—"Germany will dominate the East and politically and thus prepare herself for another world war unless Poland has sufficient strength to resist domination," President Padarowski declared in an interview.

He said that Germany has not acknowledge her defeat on the eastern front.

MRS. GEORGE REED PAPER ON MEMORIAL

The memorial meeting of the Clearfield County Historical Society, held at the home of Mrs. D. L. Krebbs, on Tuesday evening, March 19, was a most successful one. The paper read by Mrs. George Reed, on the subject of "The Memorial," was a most interesting and timely one. She pointed out the importance of the memorial as a record of the past, and the need for a permanent record of the events of the war. She also pointed out the need for a permanent record of the events of the war, and the need for a permanent record of the events of the war.

The memorial is a record of the past, and the need for a permanent record of the events of the war. The memorial is a record of the past, and the need for a permanent record of the events of the war. The memorial is a record of the past, and the need for a permanent record of the events of the war.

As the memorial is a record of the past, and the need for a permanent record of the events of the war. The memorial is a record of the past, and the need for a permanent record of the events of the war. The memorial is a record of the past, and the need for a permanent record of the events of the war.

Good things throughout the county—a Victory Highway—is a suggestion of perhaps practical value. The planting of trees might be combined with a more lasting memorial, such as a roadway, or beautifying the outside of a building and grounds. But it seems to me that a Public Library would best fill the requirements of helpful service and recreation to our county and community. Let it be a building of simple though beautiful architectural design, containing first our Hall of Fame, with its honor roll of names of the participants in American wars from this section. Here would be found exhibits of trophies, flags and other records of the tragic conflicts. Documents, maps, manuscripts, books and similar material bearing upon the different periods of the war, will be properly housed and accessible for reference.

A room especially for the children, with shelves well stocked with the tales so dear to the heart of a child, and upon which the children may congregate for their story-telling hour. The school girls and boys will be interested in the reference works, and also in the magazines which they need to help them in their school work.

ANOTHER VICTIM OF "GASSING"

GERMANY'S FATAL DRIVE BEGAN ONE YEAR AGO

By J. W. T. MASON

(Written for the United Press)

New York, March 21.—Germany's irretrievable defeat in the world war began a year ago today when the army of the Hohenzollerns started their major offensive along the West front, and outran their supply of man power.

A year's perspective of von Hindenburg's gamble shows with indubitable clearness that the German strategy was fundamentally wrong, and by no possibility could have won the war. When the Kaiser's armies started for the channel ports 12 months ago, they deliberately set forth to reduce their own strength, at a time when America's millions were speeding overseas to reinforce the allies.

Never in the history of warfare has a greater mistake than this been committed. Had the Germans reached the channel they would at most have succeeded in prolonging the war for a few months. They couldn't have defeated the American armies by the channel drive, because the American armies were not there. And, with the American armies in being, any success of von Hindenburg could have remained only a temporary affair.

What von Hindenburg did by his March offensive was to carry his battlefront so far from Germany that he could not get back. Von Hindenburg was defeated in France, somewhat after the basic manner of Napoleon's defeat in Russia. Napoleon rushed too far into the enemy's country and so did von Hindenburg. The changes in methods of warfare during the intervening century made a trespass of a mile as dangerous to von Hindenburg as a 20-mile trespass to Napoleon.

Why von Hindenburg attempted his futile advance is a matter that concerns Germany's insane mentality. The persistent error of the German military leaders throughout the war was their refusal to remain inactive. They had a gambler's passion for the initiative. This may be fruitful when the odds are not heavily in the enemy's favor. But it becomes suicidal when continued in the face of such odds as America's entrance into the war gave to the allies. Von Hindenburg's essential lack of genius was demonstrated by his refusal to enter upon a complete defensive immediately it became apparent, as it did last winter, that the United States intended pouring into Europe as many million troops as were needed to win the war. Had von Hindenburg held fast to his original Western front, he would have had between a million and a million and a half more men at his disposal than were finally left when the American offensive began. The result would have been greatly increased allied losses and upon Germany's ultimate surrender, a much larger salvage of German man power than now exists. But von Hindenburg played for no middle course. The Germans had been taught to think only in terms of victory and with that gone they had no ability to compromise their losses. Arrogance without moderating influences; offensive talents without versatility in defense—these they had in large measure. But vision and an understanding of the minds of men were far from them; and at no other time were so fatally absent as a year ago today.

AMERICA'S IMMORTALS

REIDER WAALER, Sergeant, Company A, 105th Machine Gun Battalion. Sergeant Waaler was decorated for conspicuous gallantry in action near Roncesvalles, France, September 27, 1918. Sergeant Waaler, in the face of heavy artillery and machine gun fire, crawled forward to a burning British tank, in which some of the crew were imprisoned, and succeeded in rescuing two men. Although the tank was then burning fiercely and contained ammunition which was likely to explode at any time, this soldier immediately returned to the tank and entering it, made a search for the other occupants, remaining until he satisfied himself that there were no living men in the tank. His home address is Noretstrand, Norway.

STEEL CUT DOES NOT AFFECT STOCKS

New York, March 21.—The cut in steel prices effective today was not reflected in the steel issues at the opening of the stock market today. United States Steel opened at 98 1/2, Crucible Steel 68 1/2, Marine, Preferred 111 1/2 up 1/2, Southern Pacific 101 1/2 off 1/2, Reading 84 off 1/2.

OPENING ART SHOP AT YOUNGSTOWN, OHIO

Fred S. Saneroff and his sister, Miss Frances E. Saneroff, former residents of Kylertown and quite well known here, are opening up the Ideal Waist and Art Shop at Hippodrome Arcade, Youngstown, Ohio, where they will handle products largely of their own creation and their own waists. They will do stamping, engraving and enameling of ivory.

UNITED PRESS FIGHTER TELLS OF GREAT DRIVE

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Percy M. Searl, who has just returned from the front, tells of the great drive of the United Press after four years' service with the British army, writes of the great German offensive of last March, in which he was captured with the British Third Army.)

By PERCY M. SEARL

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

LONDON, March 21.—"Wee-ooh LARG!"

I looked out of my tent on the morning of March 21, 1918, imagining that some aerial bombardier was coming up. But it was a long image—6-inch high velocity gun, and a couple of seconds in quick succession, the second ball landing about fifty yards from me, showed that it was no airy round. I realized that the great German offensive had started.

The night before I joined the 40th Division artillery, which was lying in "close reserve," just south of Arras. I was hoping for a recuperative period, as what was reckoned a fairly quiet front.

"Stand to your horses," brought us all on to the line. Fortunately the Soche was shooting by the map, and not from observation, or we should have taken little further interest in the "March show." As it was, he trooped about sixty rounds right in the midst of us without doing much damage. The enemy had broken thru at Bellecourt and was coming on fast.

"The Divisional artillery will come into action at—so-and-so," "map-speaking" and we were off. But when we got there, well—the cupboard wasn't exactly bare, because just before we reached our objective, we came across an 18-pounder section snubbing in the open and blazing away even brighter at the oncoming horde of Boches.

We slugged back and found a very comfortable place from which to observe the war. Then we had our first "hit" when a shell landed just in front of us. The Germans brought their big guns on so rapidly, and in such numbers, that we were unable to get a shot off. Our infantry hung on loggishly, and were wiped out, but the reserves found their positions soadious untenable and were compelled to try and hold a line a bit further back.

Always in the open, for there was no time to dig oneself in; and when the hillside became too hot for comfort we shifted, either to a flank or slightly to the rear. I never saw soldiers so cheerful or determined. "Dogged they hung on; and while the great game of 'tactics' went on, the whole line having to conform to some unknown situation, many miles to a flank, the Third Army grumbly wondered what it was falling back for.

If the pessimists who conceded a German victory last March could have seen those "beaten" soldiers retreating, they might have taken heart, because it never occurred to the troops themselves that they were being beaten. The retreat, to them, was all part of "some blooming strategy" the chaps next door couldn't hold on.

Back through Morry, Ervillers, St. Lager, Gommecourt, Courcelles and Budquoy, fell my part of the line, and then we stopped them. March 30 saw about the end of the nightmare as far as we were concerned, and the 40th Divisional Artillery pulled off a regular "Boy-stood-on-the-burning-deck" stunt. My own brigade, the 178th Brigade Royal Field Artillery, composed of London citizen soldiers mostly, came into action in the open, under heavy fire directed by hostile airplanes and smashed up an attack of three battalions which had been on the front held by a company of the British Guards. One battery was practically wiped out, gun after gun being knocked out by concentrations of enemy artillery. I was thankful to find myself when the "Cease fire" order came through.

There were many weary weeks of routine warfare, and night alarms. It was between Boileux-au-mont and Boilly-St.-Martin, about four hundred yards from the place where the first 10-inch shell landed on March 21, we refitted the Boche. There we refitted, and planned, and prepared for the final triumphant advance of the Allies in the ensuing summer and fall.

More than 25,000 persons are employed in the salmon canning industry in the State of Washington.

PAINT AS AN ASSET.

Bankers Say They Lend More Money on Property When Buildings Are Well Painted.

AN INDICATION OF THRIFT.

One Square Advances 25 Per Cent. More if Repainting is Done Every Five Years.

Does it pay to paint carefully farm buildings? Does it add to the selling value of a farm when buildings are properly kept up and regularly painted? A careful inquiry of a number of leading bankers in the Minneapolis valley, including such states as Iowa, Ill., Minn., Michigan, Ohio, Indiana and Missouri, reveals the fact that in nearly every case the bankers did not hesitate to lend money on farms where buildings were well painted and kept in good condition. They maintain that well kept-up and well painted buildings and fences are an indication of thrift and that the thrifty farmer is a good client, and to this money can be safely loaned. An analysis of the returns from these bankers shows that the increased loan upon houses of painted buildings is around 25 per cent.

Some of these bankers make interesting comment. A Michigan banker says that, while not especially prepared to advise definitely in response to this inquiry, the officers would loan more money on farms where buildings were painted than where they were not. The banker also adds that where houses, barns and fences were well taken care of the farm is a profitable proposition, and bankers in general consider the farmer a good client. Another Michigan banker says that the banker who repays and advances money on the farm buildings and fences is one of the best investments of a money lender. The banker also adds that the painted buildings are always taken into consideration in making an estimate. The general opinion of the property surrounding the houses and barns and the fields and fences would be carefully observed. He further says that he has no hesitancy in saying that he would advance money on farms where the buildings were not kept up and well painted. In his judgment, a painted farm building would reduce the loan value at least 25 per cent.

A Minnesota banker says that he is much more willing to loan money where the buildings are well painted than he would loan 25 per cent more than the buildings were not properly taken care of. A farmer who will keep his buildings painted takes a much deeper interest in his work than one who does not. Another Minnesota banker says that well painted buildings have resulted in securing from him bank monies as high as 25 per cent more money than where the buildings are not painted. An Ohio banker says that it will loan 25 per cent more money on a well kept farm where buildings are painted at least once every five years. A southern Ill. banker says that it has no fixed rule about this, but it does make a difference when owners of farm lands apply for loans. If the buildings are well painted and thus well preserved the loan rate would not only be cheaper, but the amount of money borrowed would be larger. A northern Illinois banker does not hesitate to say that it would loan fully 50 per cent more on a farm where buildings were well painted and in good order than where they were not. The vice president, who answers the inquiry, goes on to say: "There probably are many farmers good financially and morally who permit their buildings to remain unpainted but as a rule the most substantial people who live in the country keep their buildings well painted."

An Iowa bank, through its vice president, states that it would make a difference of at least 25 per cent in favor of the farm with painted buildings. Another Iowa concern says that it would make a difference of at least 20 per cent.

PAINT AND ILLITERACY.

Curious Fact Comes to Light That Localities Least Using Books Avoid Paint Also.

Washington, D. C.—A curious fact has been brought to light by the Educational Bureau and the Bureau of Industrial Research here. It is that in the states where illiteracy is most prevalent paint is least used. The paint referred to is the common or burn variety, of course, for the backward countries have no need for the finer pigments or facial adornments. It is a fact, though, that in the sections of all states where white illiteracy is highest painted houses are rare and painted outbuildings and barns are practically unknown. Probably the illiterates do not use paint on their buildings because they do not understand its value as a preservative.

COMEDIAN BOB OTT, "HERO EXTRAORDINARY," IN LINE FOR CARNEGIE MEDAL, ALTHOUGH UNSUCCESSFUL AS "LEG PULLER"

A Carnegie medal may be the portion of the versatile comedian Bob Ott, appearing at the head of his own company at the Driggs theatre this week. In addition to being a very clever actor Mr. Ott is also a great lover of nature and daily hikes about over the countryside in the vicinity of where he is showing, thinking nothing whatever of a ten or twelve mile jaunt. Not everybody can keep pace with the sturdy actor man on one of these tramps and as a result he generally is forced to "hit the dirt" alone.

Hearing about the beautiful reservoir of the Clearfield Water Company located among the lofty hills on Montgomery creek, some five miles from town, Mr. Ott started yesterday to hike out there and worship the soon to be generally prevailing beverage in its real purity. He made the trip out and spent an hour or two looking the huge dam and its surroundings over. In going out the nature lover traveled up over Coal Hill and decided to return via Hyde City.

The actor-an hitting an easy four-mile gait, had progressed a short ways below Jim McPherson's farm when hearing a noise and clatter behind him he turned and beheld a runaway team approaching and running as though the devil himself was after them. A tow-headed farmer boy of about fourteen years was hanging to the lines and vainly endeavoring to stop the frightened animals. Sensing the situation the athletic Mr. Ott swung off to the side of the road and as the muzzle of the lead horse reached him his strong right arm shot out and seizing the rein near the bit he hung on and steering the team off the road against a convenient bank succeeded in stopping them, although he was dragged more than two hundred feet and was all the time in imminent danger of being crushed under the plunging feet of the maddened horses.

After helping the scared driver to get his team turned around Mr. Ott continued his journey toward town. Thursday morning was destined to be "our hero's" busy day. When about opposite the home of Mike Kowalski, a few hundred yards above Hyde, he heard the cry of "fire" and at once located the disturbance on the second floor of the Kowalski home.

Mr. Ott rushed to the scene and seizing a bucket of water ran up the stairs to a smoke filled room where a blaze was located in a clothes press. A second bucket of water subdued the flames, when the aid of the brave fireman was requested by the woman of the house who was lying on the floor writhing in agony. He attempted to lift her to her feet but only served to bring a cry of pain from her lips. "Our hero" then discovered that he had some proposition on his hands.

It appeared that at one time there had been a stove in the room on the first floor and the stove pipe from same had been carried through the floor and when the stove was taken out a piece of pasteboard box was nailed over the hole in the floor. Mrs. Kowalski in her excitement due to the fire had stepped squarely on this pasteboard and her foot slipped into the stove pipe hole. The lady is not built along tall and willowly lines, with the result that further descent stopped and the leg held fast at a point above the knee, which the butcher would describe as being about the end of the shank of the ham.

When the leg went through and stuck tight the bruised flesh quickly formed a ridge below the line of contact with the floor and the least movement or attempt to pull same out brought excruciating pain to the fair prisoner. Mr. Ott, before he became an actor, dabbled some in civil engineering, but found no law of hydraulics in his mind which would relieve the situation. A couple of neighbor women arrived on the scene and they counseled with the perplexed actor man and the sufferer and essayed to save the injured member sufficiently to allow Mr. Ott to lift the woman out of her predicament. The salve was applied by the women and Mr. Ott essayed the lift but was forced to desist on account of the intense pain to the victim.

The actor refused to be baffled, however, and going across to a neighbor he requisitioned a saw and hatchet and putting his stage-carpentering ingenuity to work soon had a hole in the floor large enough to release the fainting woman, and this done "our hero" wiping the beads of perspiration from his brow modestly took retreat.

Mr. Ott recounted his dual experiences to the local press and was careful to mention that he had been so successful in his rescue that he had won the Carnegie medal for heroic action. He deserves it.

MY! BUT IT'S GREAT, HOUSEWIFE STATES

Mrs. Elizabeth Truitt, 300 E. 1st St., Philadelphia, who has a home "comfortable for husband and child," says: "My! but it's great! I was restored to health when one of my conditions was in. All my life I seemed to lie on my stomach. After a while it would develop into pain and headaches. Frequently before night I would have a raging headache and sometimes be faint with vertigo. I read about Tangle and I bought some. I've never had a single return of those spells of vertigo and have noticed even the faintness and I am in a number of ways better and stronger. Headaches have gotten less frequent, until they're almost a forgotten annoyance."

The genuine J. I. Gore Co. Tangle is now sold here by Stewart Drug Co. and Woodward & McPherson.

PANTHERS SURPRISE KITTENS BY WINNING GAME

The Panthers pulled the wool over the Kittens' eyes last night in a hot battle. Wallace stirred the pins to such an extent that he made more 200 scores and averaged 205 per game, making a total of 614 pins. Wallace and H. Roseberry had a battle in the last game. Wallace started the trouble by making two strikes before Roseberry got any. Wallace made five without stopping and then Roseberry made five. When the game ended Wallace had 227 and Roseberry had 224.

Next week is the last one of the season and the following week the bowlers will be tendered a banquet. The Wild Cats have clinched the pennant. An elimination tournament will be started next week.

The score:

LAGRIFFE

EMPRESS EUGENIE OF FRANCE IS NEARING END. HER LIFE A BOOK

London, March 19.—Private advices from Farnborough have given rise to some alarm regarding the health of the Empress Eugenie, who a few weeks hence will enter upon her ninety-fourth year. The former Empress of the French, who seemed made of iron, is said to be rapidly failing. It is believed to be a question of only a short time until there comes an end to her marvellous career, so full of romance and pathos, resplendent with the glories of a dazzling and unexpected rise to supreme power, dimmed as suddenly and unexpectedly by the tragedy of an irretrievable fall.

Eugenia has lived to see the fall of the hated Germans, who brought the tragedy into her life. To a recent visitor to Farnborough, the old country estate in Hants where she has resided since 1880, she expressed herself as contented to die.

"I have lived," he said. "I have been. I do not want to be anything more, not even a memory. I am the past—one of those distant horizons, confused and lost, which the traveler, looking back, gazes at from the summit of a mountain, and which he forgets in the expectation of viewing the new scenes already outlined before him. I live, but I am no more; a shadow, a phantom, a grief which walks."

"Between my past and my present not only 50 years intervene, but 10 centuries! I had a dream—a dream which was great for the country which received me as sovereign, which clasped me in its arms. The dream is dead, killed by destiny."

afternoon meeting. Sec'y. Graffius will talk on "That Boy and Girl" of yours. All children are invited and their parents are welcome, at 4 o'clock. Special music.

SUNDAY TRAIN ON B. R. & P. BRANCHES MAY BE REPLACED

It is quite possible that Sunday train service between Clearfield and DuBois and Indiana and Punxsutawney will be resumed when the spring schedule goes into effect on the B. R. & P. railroad about the first of May. A tentative schedule was issued the other day and it contained the information that the trains on this branch would be operated daily. This meant that they would run on Sundays. It is considered highly probable that the Sunday service will be resumed when the new schedule is issued.

Sunday service on these branches was discontinued over a year ago when the roads were overcrowded with traffic and Sunday with the big day for movement of freights.

KEEP LOOKING YOUNG

It's Easy—If You Know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, are gentle in their action yet always effective. They bring about that exuberance of spirit, that natural buoyancy which should be enjoyed by everyone, by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

You will know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets by their olive color. 10c and 25c per box. All druggists.

"Let's Try Purity Margarine"

That's a good resolution. Here we are advertising "Purity" Margarine and urging you to try it.

And here you are reading our advertisement, and wondering if the saving is really worth while—if it is really true that "Purity" Margarine is so much like butter that you cannot tell the difference.

There is only one sure way to decide the question. Buy a pound of "Purity" Margarine and put it to the most satisfying test of all—the test of taste.

Purity—fine flavor—superior quality—and economy—these are four reasons why you should buy "Purity." It sells for one-third less than butter. Your dealer has it.

WILDFIRE

By ZANE GREY

Author of

"The Rainbow Trail," "Riders of the Purple Sage," "The Border Legion," Etc.

Lin Sloane had tracked the untamed red stallion Wildfire from Utah up into Colorado, and had captured him, but he was only the nominal owner, for Lucy Smith had won the love of this beautiful animal and had captured the heart of the "wild-horse rider" as well. Lucy was the pride of her father's heart, having inherited his love of horses and his perfect fearlessness. One day she raced Wildfire against her father's "favorite," and won. On a later day, in another race, Wildfire saved Lucy's life against forest fire.

Like all of Zane Grey's heroes, this one is straight, clean and exciting—perhaps, if possible, it is a little more thrilling than any of the others.

COULD BE SPIRITUALLY IMPROVED MATERIALLY

(United Press)

SAN FRANCISCO, March 20.—George Joseph Taylor, who knows where heaven is, and who is about to tell the world the exact location in a book, is looking for a divorce from Marie Margaret Taylor, his million dollar New York bride.

After less than a year of married life Mrs. Taylor has returned to her Riverside home in New York, where she will continue studying spiritual subjects and preparing lectures. So long as the two lived in the spiritual world, in which they were engaged, they were happy together, Taylor said. But when they came down to material things they learned they were not suited.

Good News For Women

Only women who have suffered the pain and agony that female disorders and monthly periods frequently cause can ever realize the suffering and torture many women are forced to endure. If this condition is not relieved, ruined health and misery may result.

But thousands have found relief and benefit from the use of Dr. Miller's Anti-Pain Pills.

Here's a case: "I suffered from excessive monthly pain for years. A friend advised me to try Dr. Miller's Anti-Pain Pills. First box relieved. Now I suffer no pain and do all my house work." Miss Nellie A. Jones, Jeanette, La.

NEWS

CURWENSVILLE

A. G. Ammerman, who was engaged in the ice business for several years, and who sold his interest to Harvey Cook last fall, has moved his family to Philadelphia, where he will engage in his old line of trade.

Wm. Baer and family, who resided on the corner of Walnut and North streets, have moved into the A. G. Ammerman house over on Irvin Hill, he vacating for the reason that the property was purchased from Miss Ella Laing by E. K. Way last fall and who will occupy the same with his family.

Many Curwensville people are "taking time by the forelock" and are utilizing this fine March weather for moving, instead of waiting until the first of April, the usual time for "fitting." Happy is the man who owns his own home and is not compelled to sit from pillar to post every spring time.

Some time ago it was noted in the local paper and also the Progress that the local order of Odd Fellows of Curwensville was contemplating the erection of a new home. As yet no positive decision has been arrived at by that august body. A short synopsis of the order generally will not come amiss here, and perhaps will shed a small ray of light in the pathway of the uninitiated.

Although representation in Biblical times is claimed by this order, the earliest direct knowledge we have of the society is its existence in London in latter part of the 18th century, under the name of Ancient and Honorable Loyal Odd Fellows, finally called the Union Order of Odd Fellows. These original societies were of a convivial character and attempted to change the nature of the order, resulting in a secession of the several lodges which formed the Manchester Unity which is now the main part of the British society. In America, lodge No. 1, was organized in Baltimore on April 26th, 1819, by Thomas Wilkey and four other persons, according to the union and on usages. A lodge was organized in Boston, March 26th 1820, also one in Philadelphia, December 26th, 1821, both of which were chartered by the original American organization. Since 1843 the order in America has had no connection with that in Great Britain. There are organizations of Odd Fellows in Germany, Switzerland, Australia, South America and the Hawaiian Islands, working under charters received from the American order. Bethesda lodge was organized and instituted on January 16, 1872, by D. D. G. M. Thomas Robbins; S. J. Row, grand warden; C. J. Keaggy, grand secretary and A. M. Hills, grand treasurer. (These men are all deceased.) The charter members were as follows: Henry Kerns, P. G.; J. M. Stewart, N. G.; Ed. Goodwin, V. G.; J. R. Irwin, secretary; T. J. Robinson Asst. Sec.; J. E. Kratzer, Treas.; B. S. Broome, R. S. to N. G.; J. R. Caldwell, L. S. to N. G.; L. V. B. Soper, Warden; J. A. Maxwell, conductor M. F. Owens, R. S.; W. W. Broome, L. S. S.; A. B. Whittaker, O. G.; J. G. Hills, I. G.; S. F. McCloskey, chaplain; L. T. Ross, R. S. to V. G.; Charles Grist, L. S. to V. G. (All these charter members are deceased except three, J. E. Kratzer, J. R. Caldwell, and Wm. Broome.) Bethesda lodge was so unfortunate as to lose its charter, furniture and general effects with the burning of the Patton block on October 2d, 1880. The loss was nearly two thousand dollars; no insurance. Meetings were then held in the Bilger block until the completion of the present Patton block, when the rooms now occupied were taken. Today Bethesda lodge ranks as one of the regulated and conducted lodges in the county. Financially it is near the top, and its membership roll is close to the three hundred mark.

New Treatment That Knocks Rheumatism

THE BOX FREE TO ANY SUFFERER

Up in Syracuse, N. Y., a treatment for rheumatism has been found that hundreds of users say is a wonder, relieving cases that seem little short of miraculous. Just a few treatments even in the very worst cases seem to accomplish wonders even after other remedies have failed entirely. It seems to neutralize the uric acid and line salt deposits in the blood, driving all the poisonous clothing waste from the system. Swelling, pain, stiffness, swelling just seem to melt away and vanish.

The treatment first introduced by Mr. Delano is so good that its owner wants everybody that suffers from rheumatism or who has a friend so afflicted, to get a free box of the treatment from him to prove just what it will do in every case before a penny is spent. Mr. Delano says: "To prove the Delano treatment will positively overcome rheumatism, no matter how severe, stubborn or long standing the case, and even after all other treatments have failed, I will, if you have never previously used the treatment, send you a full size box free if you will just cut out this notice and send it with your name and address with the help pay postage and distribution expense to me personally."

F. H. Delano, 1925 R. Wood Ridge, Syracuse, N. Y. I can send only one free package to an address.

New Things Like New Ideas Gravitate To This Store

New Spring Millinery

Special prices make these offerings of chic new spring hats especially worth while. One can choose straw hats, georgette hats, satin hats or a combination of these materials. All becomingly trimmed. All new shapes and colors. The home of the famous character hats.

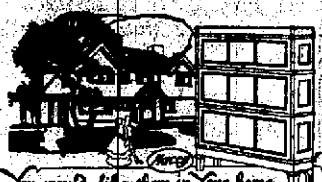

A SMALL ANNOUNCEMENT YET BIG IN MONEY SAVING INTEREST

A MOTHER'S STRENGTH

Mother, whose hands rock the cradle, often needs more than ordinary food to help maintain the blood-quality and strength and to assure adequate nourishment to the child. It is as unwise for the mother, as it is dangerous to the child, to place dependence upon alcoholic stimulation, for strength is not found in alcohol.
